FANTASY FELLAS · SCOUTING REPORT · AFTER GAMEWEEK 10

R.W. de Kock Barfightlona

The slowest starter in the league and, since GW3, one of the steadiest. What works, what leaks, and how he can climb.

LEAGUE
P9
584 pts · 68 behind us, 95 behind Jason

OVERALL RANK
3.64M
was 8.86M after GW2

VS OVERALL AVERAGE
+21
−46 in GW1–2, +67 in GW3–10

CHIPS LEFT
BB
TC GW3 · WC GW4 · FH GW10

WEEKS ABOVE AVERAGE
8 in a row
every week from GW3 to GW10

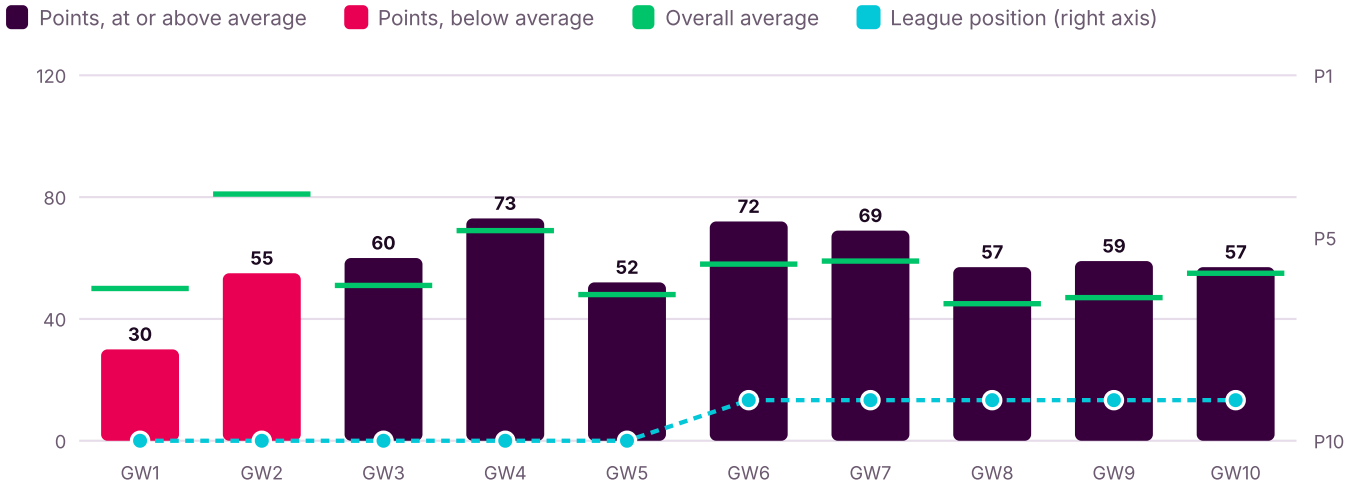

CAPTAIN POINTS
99
lowest in the league

HITS TAKEN 0
never more than one transfer a week

MONEY IN THE BANK
£4.7m
team value £102.5m

In one line: after a bad first fortnight (30 and 55 points) he has beaten the average eight weeks running, with calm one-a-week transfers and no hits. What keeps him in ninth is the armband: his captains scored 50 points less than Haaland would have, the worst in the league. Fix that and he is a top-half manager.

Ten weeks at a glance

Two red weeks at the start, then eight purple ones. The league position barely moved (10th to 9th) because the gap built in GW1–2 was large and everyone else in this league scores above average too.

What he is good at, and what he is not

Good at

- Spotting value forwards and defenders. Watkins → Calvert-Lewin (GW2) made +38 and Cash → De Cuyper (GW5) +32: two of the best transfers in the league.
- Discipline. Zero hits all season and one transfer a week. His seven normal transfers made +76 between them.
- Consistency. Above the average every week since GW3: eight in a row, the longest run in the league. Nobody else has more than five.
- A strong Wildcard. His GW4 rebuild brought in Tavernier (+33 against the player he replaced) and Gvardiol (+17).

Not good at

- The armband. Leaving Haaland cost him 50 points: Cunha in GW2 (−8), Gakpo in GW4 (−16) and Cherki in GW7, who did not play, so vice Gvardiol scored 0 (−26).
- Chip timing. All three used chips gave modest returns: Triple Captain +9, the Wildcard week 73 (+4 on the average), the Free Hit 57 (+2 on the average).
- A rich bench. Raya (£6.2m), Cherki (£7.9m) and João Pedro (£7.6m) were on his GW9 bench: £21.7m doing nothing.
- Using his money. £4.7m unspent, the second most in the league after Richard.

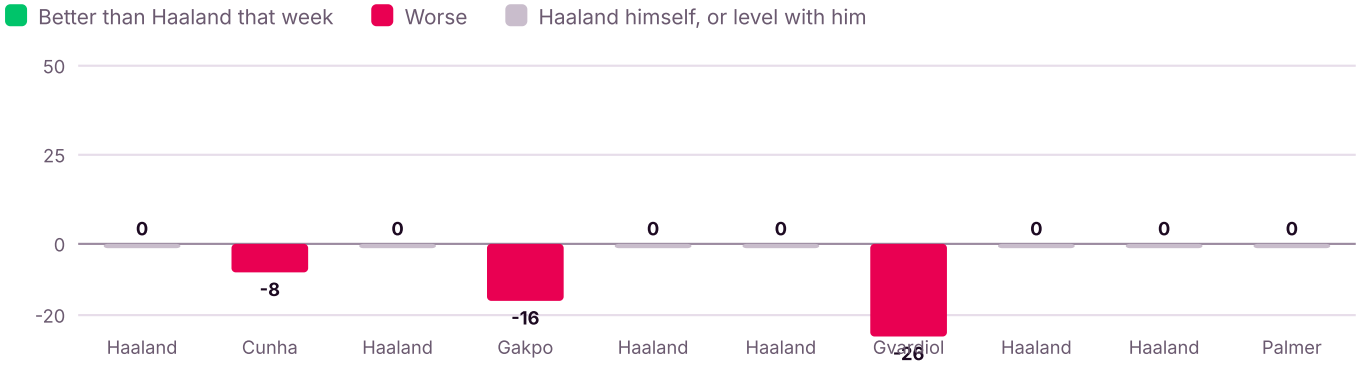

His biggest wins

WHEN	MOVE	GAIN
GW2	Watkins → Calvert-Lewin	+38
GW4	Gravenberch → Tavernier (Wildcard)	+33
GW5	Cash → De Cuyper	+32
GW4	Martinez → Gvardiol (Wildcard)	+17
GW10	Free Hit vs his own team	about +11

His biggest losses

WHEN	MOVE	COST
GW7	Cherki captain (did not play, vice 0)	−26 vs Haaland
GW4	Gakpo captain (1 × 2)	−16 vs Haaland
GW3	E.Le Fée → Cherki	−9
GW2	Cunha captain (9 × 2)	−8 vs Haaland
GW1–2	The start: 30 and 55 points	−46 vs avg

Captaincy, week by week

Points won or lost against putting the armband on Haaland that week. He captained Haaland in 6 of 10 weeks (GW3 as Triple Captain). None of his four other picks beat Haaland; together they lost 50.

Gains for transfers: points of the player bought minus the player sold, over the weeks he was kept.

Where he can improve, and what it means for us

Where he can improve

- Captain Haaland by default. Simply doing that would have given him 50 more points, enough to move from ninth to fifth.
- Check the captain's minutes. GW7 went to a player who did not play. A vice-captain who reliably starts is a cheap insurance.
- Put the money on the pitch. £4.7m in the bank plus £21.7m on the bench can become two strong starters in one or two moves.
- Save the Bench Boost for a double gameweek, when his expensive bench players play twice.

What he must hold steady

- One transfer a week, no hits. It works: +76 from seven transfers.
- His scouting of cheap starters: Calvert-Lewin (£6.0m), De Cuyper (£4.8m), Van Hecke and Konsa give him a strong core for little money.
- The weekly rhythm. Eight weeks above average is the habit that climbs ranks over a season.
- A team value that keeps rising: from £99.7m in GW3 to £102.5m.

His opportunities

- Captaincy alone is worth about 5 points a week on his record so far. That is the cheapest climb in the league.
- Bench Boost in hand. With Raya, Cherki and João Pedro on the bench it could be one of the strongest boosts in the league, if he picks a double week.
- Cash. £4.7m lets him buy almost any player next week without selling a starter.
- Fixtures. Bournemouth (Tavernier, Kluivert) have NFO, BHA and HUL at home in the next four weeks.

What it means for us

- Not a title threat yet: 68 behind us with only the Bench Boost left. His steady scoring makes him the one to watch from the bottom half.
- Shared players cancel out. We share five: Haaland, De Cuyper, Groß, Tavernier and Tzolakis.
- His differentials against us: Raya, Van Hecke, Konsa, Gvardiol, Calvert-Lewin and Kluivert.
- For our title race he matters little: he only helps us in weeks he outscores Jason, and with five shared players that will be rare.

His squad now (back from the Free Hit, as set in GW9)

POS	STARTING XI (GW9)	BENCH (GW9)
GK	Tzolakis* (HUL)	Raya (ARS)
DEF	Van Hecke (TOT) · De Cuyper* (BHA) · Gvardiol (MCI) · Konsa (ARS)	Hato (CHE)
MID	Groß* (BHA) · Kluivert (BOU) · Tavernier* (BOU) · Belloumi (HUL)	Cherki (MCI)
FWD	Calvert-Lewin (LEE) · Haaland* (MCI)	João Pedro (CHE)

* also in our squad. Bank £4.7m. His GW10 Free Hit team has reverted; this is the squad he will start GW11 with unless he transfers.